Introduction	5
Executive Overview	7
Strategic Insights	14
Oversupply of caprolactam and adipic acid in mainland China will take a long time to absorb and lead to uneven developments across regions	14
The global cyclohexane market will remain structurally long for the next decade	14
The ADN business will face a structural shift once ADN capacity additions come onstream in mainland China. North American ADN producers will face the brunt of the emerging competition	15
Non-nylon demand for ADA and HMDA will remain generally strong, despite some ongoing substitution in the PU market	16
Recycling and environmental sustainability will have only minor impacts on demand for conventional feedstocks in the near term	16
Biogenerated ADA, CPL, and HMDA are in various stages of development, but the impact in the near term is minimal	17
